

Forest rangers richer than Philippine staples
 By Carlo Nido
 A group of forest rangers in the Philippines are richer than the country's staples, rice and sugarcane, according to a report by the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP). The report, titled "Human Development Report 2004," shows that the average income of forest rangers is $1,200 a year, compared to the national average of $1,000. The report also shows that forest rangers have a higher literacy rate than the national average, and that they are more likely to own a car or a motorcycle. The report is a biennial publication that provides a comprehensive overview of human development in the Philippines.

Baguio artists showcase victims' pain

By Frances Calabina and Rosanna Calabina

ARTISTS OF BAGUIO, Ilocos Norte, have used their talents to create a series of murals that depict the pain and suffering of the victims of the 2009 typhoon. The murals, which are located in the Baguio area, are a tribute to the victims and a reminder of the pain they endured. The artists, who are from various backgrounds, have used their art to express their feelings and to raise awareness of the victims' plight. The murals are a powerful statement of the community's solidarity and its commitment to remembering the victims.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a supervised walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group consisted of 20 women who did not participate in the walking program. The physical and psychological health of the subjects was assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The walking program had a significant positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the subjects. The walking program significantly improved the subjects' physical health, as measured by the 6-minute walk test, and their psychological health, as measured by the Beck Depression Inventory and the State-Trait Anxiety Inventory. The walking program also significantly improved the subjects' quality of life, as measured by the SF-36. The walking program was well tolerated and had no adverse effects. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program can improve the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

The diagram illustrates the experimental setup for studying the effect of reactant concentration on reaction rate. It shows a reaction vessel where reactants A and B are mixed. The concentrations of these reactants are denoted as $[A]$ and $[B]$. The reaction proceeds to form products C and D, with their concentrations denoted as $[C]$ and $[D]$. The overall rate of the reaction is represented by r . The setup includes a means to control the concentration of the reactants and a method to measure the rate of product formation.

Barangay turns garbage into gold

By Sam I. Aguirre

MANILA (Philippine Daily Inquirer) — A small barangay in Manila has turned its garbage into gold by creating a composting plant. The plant, which is owned and operated by a local entrepreneur, has been able to turn the waste generated by the barangay into a valuable product that can be sold to farmers and other businesses. The plant has also been able to create jobs for local residents, and has helped to reduce the amount of garbage that is dumped in the open. The plant is a model of how a small community can turn its waste into a valuable resource.

Mandaluyong presses drive vs smoke ig

By Sam I. Aguirre

MANILA (Philippine Daily Inquirer) — The city of Mandaluyong is pushing for a drive vs smoke campaign to reduce air pollution. The city has been plagued by air pollution for many years, and the city officials are now taking steps to reduce the amount of smoke that is being emitted by vehicles and other sources. The campaign will involve a series of activities, including the distribution of information materials, the posting of signs, and the enforcement of traffic rules. The city officials hope that the campaign will help to reduce the amount of smoke that is being emitted, and that it will also help to raise awareness of the problem of air pollution.

Revised 11/10/2010 by J. L. Jones, Jr.

Figure 1. Schematic diagram of the experimental setup. The setup includes a laser source, a beam splitter, a lens, a sample, a detector, and a data acquisition system. The laser source emits a beam that is split into two paths. One path goes through a lens and a sample, while the other path goes through a lens and a detector. The data acquisition system records the signals from the detector.

Detailed description of Figure 1: This is a scatter plot with a line of best fit. The horizontal axis (x-axis) is labeled 'log [Inhibitor]' and has major tick marks at -1, -0.5, 0, 0.5, and 1. The vertical axis (y-axis) is labeled 'log Rp' and has major tick marks at 0, 1, and 2. There are five data points plotted, which appear to follow a linear trend. A straight line is drawn through the points, starting from the bottom left and extending towards the top right.

1. $\frac{d}{dt} \left(\frac{1}{2} m v^2 \right) = \frac{1}{2} m \frac{d}{dt} (v^2) = \frac{1}{2} m \frac{d}{dt} (v_x^2 + v_y^2 + v_z^2) = \frac{1}{2} m \left(2 v_x \frac{d v_x}{dt} + 2 v_y \frac{d v_y}{dt} + 2 v_z \frac{d v_z}{dt} \right) = m \left(v_x \frac{d v_x}{dt} + v_y \frac{d v_y}{dt} + v_z \frac{d v_z}{dt} \right)$

Figure 1 shows a schematic diagram of a two-dimensional lattice. The lattice is represented by a grid of points. A central point is labeled 'i'. To its right is a point labeled 'j'. Above 'i' is a point labeled 'i-1', and below 'i' is a point labeled 'i+1'. To the right of 'i' is a point labeled 'i+1'. The lattice is bounded by a vertical line on the right, labeled 'L'. The horizontal axis is labeled 'x' and the vertical axis is labeled 'y'.

The legacy of Zeneida Amador

By [illegible]

FIFTY of more years, Zeneida Amador has been a constant presence in the lives of many Filipinos. Her legacy is not just in the music she composed, but in the values she instilled in her children and the people she met. She was a woman of faith, a woman of love, and a woman who never gave up. Her music, which spanned several decades, touched the hearts of millions. She was a pioneer in the Philippine music industry, and her influence is still felt today. Her children, who followed in her footsteps, have also made their mark in the industry. Her legacy is a testament to her talent, her hard work, and her unwavering commitment to her art and her people.
